

ANXIETY OVER KING GEORGE'S CONDITION GROWS

BIDS ON NEW BRIDGE ASKED BY COMMITTEE

Structure Must be Completed by December 1, 1929, Decision

The new bridge across Rock river at Peoria avenue, must be completed and ready to be opened to traffic by December 1st, 1929, the road and bridge committee of the board of supervisors voted at a meeting held at the court house this morning. Four members favored the completion of the structure by that date and one member favored extending the date until March 1, 1930.

The committee was in session Saturday afternoon considering final plans before advertising for bids and reconvened this morning in the office of County Superintendent of Highway Fred Leake to complete final plans. It was decided to accept bids for the construction of the bridge up until 10 o'clock on the morning of Thursday, Dec. 20. At that time the bids will be opened in the presence of the road and bridge committee. County Superintendent Leake and members of the city council in the supervisors room at the court house, where the estimates will be received.

The contract, however, will not be awarded on that date, it was intimated at this morning's session of the committee, as necessary time must be allowed to examine the various bids and to investigate the responsibility of the contractor whose bid will be accepted.

Must Start in Month.

In advertising for bids the road and bridge committee requires that work shall be started within a 30 day period from the date of the furnishing of a bond of a sufficient amount to cover the full amount of the contract. It is altogether likely that the contractor will be held to a penalty clause to prevent unnecessary delay in the progress of the work. The action of the road and bridge committee will be presented to the county board of supervisors which convened in its regular December meeting this morning.

Indications at present point to the beginning of work on the bridge this winter. Thus far no delays have been experienced in the preparation of the plans and specifications for the new structure and it is quite likely that work can be started in January in the placing of the footings for the piers, which will enable the contractor to begin work on the building of the forms as soon as the spring high water recedes. It is expected that this will enable the pouring of cement as soon as the frost has disappeared.

ADVANCE GUARD OF BYRD PARTY GETS UNDER WAY

Commander and Fifty of Expedition Sailing for Ice Pack

Wellington, N. Z., Dec. 3.—(AP)—The advance guard of Commander Richard E. Byrd's expedition was sailing southward today to establish a base at the edge of the Antarctic ice barrier.

Fifty men and Commander Byrd were on the supply ship Eleanor Bolling when it left Dunedin towing another to the South Polar regions. The party will establish a base in the Bay of Whales and remain there while the Eleanor Bolling returns to Dunedin for the remainder of the personal and equipment.

For the first few hundred miles of his 2,000-mile voyage to the ice-covered polar continent, Commander Byrd will have easy sailing. Later, however, the ships will have to force their way through the polar ice pack and will require several weeks for the plodding trip. During this time scientists plan to gather data on the depth and temperature of the water, the nature of the ocean bottom, the structure and movement of the pack and the direction of currents.

The party will set up a portable town at the ice barrier and this will be its base of operations for at least a year and a half.

Miss Lucille Collins, who has been spending the past three weeks in Chicago at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Collins, returned home Wednesday evening, accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Collins to Dixon in their car. They spent Thanksgiving day here with relatives, returning later to Chicago Mrs. Collins who submitted to a serious operation about six weeks ago, is reported to be much improved.

AUTO THIEVES ADMIT TAKING DIXONITE'S CAR

Two Globe Trotters in Jail Following Confessions Sunday

Two young men, globe trotters and soldiers of fortune, tired of wandering about the country without jobs and without funds, resorted to stealing an automobile at noon Saturday with which they hoped to seek a warmer climate. After taking the car and being unacquainted with the highways, and fearing arrest, they abandoned the car and later confessed their wrongful act.

Tom Kelly of Los Angeles, Cal. a cook, and incidentally one of the number of Pyle-Grange bunion star globe trotters, who held out from his home until St. Louis was reached, where his "dogs" went bad, is said to have engineered the scheme. Kelly appeared in this locality about a month ago and going to the county jail, asked to be treated for a venereal disease. The state law requires that such a request shall be heeded and Sheriff Miller held Kelly in the county jail until a week ago today, when the attending physician pronounced him cured, and he was released.

Kelly was without funds and went to Princeton, where he obtained employment at his trade. His job was of short duration, however, when his employer learned of his having been in the county all here for treatment, and discharged him. It was at Princeton that Kelly met Henry Miller, of New York City, who was tramping through the central west on his first trip away from his home state. They started walking to Dixon the latter part of last week, begging rides.

Had Been Picked Up

About noon Saturday they discovered a Ford sedan, belonging to Lester Smith of this city, parked near the Northwestern cut-off east of town. Smith was hunting in a field some distance away and the pair took the car and drove away. According to their story, they started for Amboy, but turned back and came to Dixon and parked the car on Hennepin avenue beside the city hall. Officer Harry Jones picked them up a short time later when he found them begging in the business district. They were taken to the police station and, as the theft of the car had not then been reported, they were ordered to leave the city. Taking the stolen car and pooling their scant funds, and oil they purchased again with Rockford as their objective.

Being unacquainted with the highways, they drove to Rock Island, where they abandoned the car Saturday evening when the gasoline supply was exhausted. They then caught a ride on a Rock Island train going to Spring Valley, where they went to the police station and secured lodging. Sunday morning when they were about to be released, Miller told the chief of police at Spring Valley that they had stolen an automobile near Oquon and abandoned it at Rock Island. Fear of arrest, he told the Spring Valley chief, had led him to confess their actions, and he further added that this was his first attempt at thievery.

Held to Grand Jury

Mrs. Ball, the winner, a bride of less than six months, was the runner-up in the mid-west finals of 1927.

HOOVER ON WAY TO PERU AFTER ECUADOR VISIT

President of Latter Nation Accompanies Him on Today's Lap

U. S. S. Maryland, en route to Callao, Peru, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover today left Ecuador for Peru where he plans to land Wednesday at Callao.

The President-elect was accompanied on the seventy-mile ride on the cruiser Cleveland, from Guayaquil by President Ayora who through newspaper men sent greetings to the American people. He said he was pleased because of Mr. Hoover's visit, declaring it would create better feeling and improve relations between the United States and South America.

After reviewing financial, sanitary and other reforms which he said his government had accomplished, Ayora asserted that Ecuador maintained friendly relations with all countries. "There are home boundary disputes," he said. "My government favors early and final settlement of these on the basis of justice and equality and wants to deal with them through direct negotiations with the government concerned."

Boundary Dispute.

The principal boundary dispute is with Peru and there is also one pending with Colombia.

Ayora who traveled to Guayaquil to formally welcome Hoover yesterday, talked with the President-elect on the Cleveland for more than two hours, discussing financial and economic affairs of Ecuador and the manner in which the United States might assist the republic.

Ayora seems proud of the fact that Ecuador's finances had been restored to a gold basis, with a central bank system of the United States Federal Reserve Bank. There is also a farm bank in Ecuador. Ayora said his government had established a board of social welfare to improve conditions of labor and to enact laws for the welfare of women and children.

Interested in Laws.

Hoover was especially interested in the operation of these laws, as they dealt with subjects on which he put emphasis in his campaign for the presidency.

Besides Ayora, Hoover was accompanied to the Maryland by Foreign Minister La Fronte, Finance Minister Tejada and the American Minister, Gerard A. Bading.

Mr. Hoover was informed that the Maryland would be accompanied to Callao by the flagship of the Peruvian navy. From Callao the President-elect plans to go to Lima by motor.

It is probable that Hoover will call at Antofagasta, Chile, instead of Molendo, Peru, to receive Bolivian officials. Under arrangements, now pending, the call at Antofagasta would be made Saturday.

SEEK GAMBLER'S PAPERS STOLEN FROM BANK BOX

Grand Jury Probing Rothstein's Life and His Death

New York, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The life of Arnold Rothstein, as well as his death, today became a matter for consideration by the grand jury which has been investigating the circumstances under which the gambler was slain.

District Attorney Joab H. Banton is concentrating upon a search for documents taken from Rothstein's safe deposit boxes and from his home. For the moment, this activity will eclipse the homicide angle, the evidence in which, Mr. Banton said, has been assembled into "a beautiful case of circumstantial evidence."

The missing documents, the District Attorney said, connected Rothstein and persons in the high places with reprehensible activities. He would not name the persons nor describe the activities.

"The grand jury will take up this matter intensively," Banton said. "We know the documents have been stolen, and the grand jury will get all the evidence we have."

With three indictments for murder decided upon, the grand jury today planned to question "Tough Willie" McCabe, who is held in $10,000 bail as a material witness.

George "Hump" McManus, charged with first degree murder in Rothstein's death, has remained dumb in his cell since his arrest. Police regard him as the only man in their hands who knows all the facts in the case. He has admitted nothing since his surrender, but denies that he fired the shot which killed Rothstein.

Clinton Stauffer of Route 3 was a business caller here Saturday.

MERCURY SINKS IN NORTH WEST: COLD WAVE DUE

Much Colder Weather Forecast for This Part of Country

Chicago, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The mercury had a sinking spell over the northwest states today and sub-zero temperatures that prevailed in Montana and the Dakotas overnight were riding east and south on winds of gale force. The frigid wave was attended by snow flurries, and a heavy fall was reported about Duluth, Minn., while snow was forecast as far south as Kansas today.

Bismarck, N. D., was the cold spot of the United States with a temperature of 8 degrees below zero and further north at Edmonton, Alberta, thermometers registered 24 degrees below. Continued cold with clearing skies were on the menu for the mid-west states today and tomorrow. Over the Great Lakes, storm warnings were displayed.

CHILEAN QUAKE'S TOLL MOUNTS AS RELIEF PROCEEDS

230 Known Dead, Many Injured in South American Republic

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 3.—(AP)—President Ibanez today was on the scene directing relief measures for the survivors of an earthquake which devastated a large area 150 miles to the south of Santiago. A casualty list compiled from various unofficial sources placed the deaths at 230 with more than 400 injured.

Martial law was established in Talca, an industrial city of 36,000 population. Official advices from there said that only ten per cent of the houses were habitable. The deaths at Talca were estimated at 108 with 300 injured.

Trains were speeding into the stricken areas regular railway schedules having been cancelled so as to give them the right of way.

Marauders Doomed.

Soldiers were ordered to shoot on sight any marauders. Troops took over most of the food supply to prevent looting and they were rationing them out. Thus any effort on the part of speculators to take advantage of an emergency by raising prices was blocked.

Refugees arriving from Talca estimated that the damage there would amount to 100,000,000 pesos (about $12,000,000).

The hospital there was burned after the earthquake and more than 200 persons had to be cared for in emergency shelter.

The naval commander at Port Constitución said that 54 were dead there and about 100 injured. Three cruisers were sent to the port by the government.

Casualty List.

The unofficial casualty list for the other places was: Chillan, 30 dead, 30 injured; Teniente mine, 17 dead, numerous other deaths and injuries; Pelequen 5 dead, 4 injured; Santa Cruz, 30 dead, Concepcion, 2 injured; Rancagua, 1 dead; Curico, 2 dead, 4 injured, and San Vicente, 4 injured.

The whole vicinity presented a desolate aspect. Roads were blocked by falling trees and wires. Long lines of refugees were moving over them afoot or in various conveyances with their belongings.

A group of government engineers was making a survey of the region today so that relief work and rehabilitation might be more effectively organized.

CONGRESS HAD HOUR SESSION AT NOON TODAY

Adjourned in Tribute to Members Who Died in Recess

BULLETIN

Washington, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The short session of the 70th Congress met for an hour today devoting its time to formalities incident to an opening day and adjourned out of respect for members who have died during the recess. The Senate adjourned shortly after it met at noon and the House quit at 1 p. m.

The first move to increase the tariff on agricultural products came almost with the sound of the gavel in the House with the introduction of a bill by Representative Williamson, Republican, South Dakota, to raise the import duties on various grains.

BY JAMES L. WILLIAMS

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Congress assembled today with an eye on the White House but with an attentive ear turned toward South Pacific waters where Herbert Hoover is back.

In South American sunshine, apparently outside of the circle of politics and patronage which usually closes in on an incoming president.

By all of the rules it was a Coolidge Congress, elected to serve with him, but nevertheless, the figure of Hoover, now on a good will trip to this nation's southern neighbors bulked as a major factor in the determination of what should be done during the three months session, and the way to do it.

It was a more or less bewildered Congress. There was plenty of work to be done, and that work was clearly outlined, but the campaign has brought in new issues which might make a lively session out of one which ordinarily would be very dull.

Face Two Disputes

At the very outset there was a dispute over the questions of farm relief and the tariff. Some wanted farm relief right away. Some wanted tariff revision—upward—immediately, and some wanted the two issues separated with farm relief now and tariff legislation later. Chairman Hawley of the House ways and means committee undertook to settle the issue by calling his Republican colleagues into session to determine what should be done. The Democrats had little to say and but few expressions have been heard from them since the Hoover landslide.

As the Senate and House gathered, a farm relief bill was in the making, without the McNary-Haugen equalization fee which has proved so distasteful to President Coolidge. Efforts will be made to push it through. Nevertheless there is a formidable group on Capitol Hill which insists that President-elect Hoover has promised an extra session for a farm program of his own and this group had determined the matter should be left over for consideration during Mr. Hoover's administration.

No Hoover Spokesmen

So far as known there has been no Hoover spokesman to convey to the members of the Senate and the House the views of the man chosen to succeed Calvin Coolidge at the White House, and all arguments have lacked the authoritative voice of both Mr. Coolidge and his former Secretary of Commerce.

On the face of it, the major task of the House was to pass the nine appropriation bills for the various departments of the government. It had during the last session shunted to the Senate such problems as the Boulder Dam-Colorado River development bill, the naval construction measure and others. Muscle Shoals, however, an annual problem, still remained to be solved as a result of President Coolidge's pocket-veto of the bill passed last spring.

In the Senate the Boulder Dam bill, in the hands of Senator Johnson of California, has preferred status. It faced a stormy passage unless radically changed but had a fighting group behind it anxious to press it through the Senate and send it to President Coolidge for his signature.

Twin Bills in Senate

Oddly enough the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war and the bill to construct fifteen new cruisers were twins awaiting a place on the Senate program. The cruiser bill, with recent utterances of President Coolidge to give it new momentum, was expected to be taken up soon after the session got down to the routine business of legislation. The Kellogg pact likewise was down for early consideration.

The extent of the bitterness engendered by the election and the campaign is still to be shown.

On both sides of the Senate there are members who fought their party's presidential candidate wholeheartedly.

HELL-ROARIN' OLD DAYS IN COLORADO CAMP AREN'T PASSE

Federal Grand Jury is Investigating Leadville Conditions

Leadville, Colo., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Hell-roaring old days of this colorful "Cloud City" mining camp, federal dry agents claim, are not as passe as would be supposed under the Volstead Act, and a federal grand jury at Pueblo has summoned nearly the entire city administration to testify regarding the alleged present conditions.

The investigations was slated to get under way late today or tomorrow, and the city was nearly bereft of officials.

Eighteen subpoenas served by the United States Marshal called for the appearance of the entire city council, county sheriff, city attorney, a police captain, and owners of several alleged saloons along Harrison Avenue the principal thoroughfare.

Federal officials said that all the persons had been subpoenaed to act as witnesses, but that they are under information which, if the jury sees fit, may result in federal indictments. It was said the government was making a stand against alleged liquor activities here.

It was alleged conditions had become such that on the occasion of a recent appearance of federal men, an unidentified resident galloped down Harrison Avenue, a la Paul Revere, and passed the word that "the Federals are coming." The officers found the town closed up.

Henry Ward Beecher, following a visit here many years ago, called Leadville "the wickedest town in the world." The town then was a rip-roaring settlement founded about gold and silver discoveries of fabulous value in California gulch, and mecca for adventurers of every stripe.

OXYGEN USED TO STIMULATE RULER'S HEART

Queen Mary Omits Her Regular Drive for the First Time

London, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Lord Dawson of Penn., one of King George's two principal physicians, paid his third visit of the day to Buckingham Palace at 2:45 p. m. He left after a half hour's stay.

Queen Mary did not take her usual outing this afternoon. This was the first time that she had omitted her regular drive since the King was taken ill.

Extra editions of evening newspapers, containing the latest information on the illness of the King, were called in the streets today for the first time since early in the days of the World War. The editions were quickly exhausted by eager buyers. This news expedient is usual only in times of grave national crisis and the fact that it was adopted in connection with the King's illness was further indicative of the nation's increasing anxiety.

London, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Aided by oxygen, King George today was fighting the strain of his long illness, which menaced his heart. It was stated at Buckingham Palace today that a small quantity of oxygen had been administered to the sovereign as a tonic during the night. It was added, however, that this was a common practice, and should not be regarded with alarm.

The King's physicians, Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn., arrived at the palace at 10 a. m., about three quarters of an hour later than usual.

There was intense interest in the result of their morning visit to His Majesty and the issuance of their bulletin was anxiously awaited.

Crowd Stands in Rain.

A rain had fallen at intervals during the night, and this settled to a steady drizzle by the time the physicians made their appearance. This did not prevent a crowd from beginning to gather early while many people on their way to shops and offices, joined occupants of automobiles and taxicabs in stopping to read the late night bulletin which told of the anxiety concerning the strength of the King's heart.

By the time the medical bulletin was posted, the crowd outside Buckingham Palace had swollen to big proportions. There was a rush forward to read the report which chronicled a lowering of the King's temperature, and slight improvement in his general condition.

As the crowd read the bulletin, there were signs of relief as it seemed that new hope was given and what they feared most—the growing worse of his condition—was not chronicled. Many of those who had waited for hours in the rain walked off with their hearts at least temporarily lightened.

It was learned at the palace after the morning bulletin had been issued that there was small probability that there would be any further official word until the usual hour of the night.

Sons On Way Home.

Two sons of King George who had been on a hunting tour in Africa, were speeding homeward today, to the bedside of their father.

The Prince of Wales sailed from Dar-es-Salaam on the cruiser Entenprise. He is expected to arrive in London about the 12th or 13th of December. Throughout the trip he will be in constant touch with Queen Mary and the royal family by radio. The Duke of Gloucester, who was hunting near the border of northern Rhodesia, was making a dash for the coast in a special coach today. He reached Broken Hill this morning and will continue to Capetown where it is understood that he will take a mail steamer for England.

"EVERYTHING FAILED UNTIL I GOT GLY-CAS"

Was Subject to Terrible Night Sweats, Stomach Disorder—ed for Years Before.

In thousands of cases of stomach trouble of years' duration, after seemingly everything else had failed, suffering men and women have found surprising relief through use of this amazing new medicine, Gly-Cas. For example, Mrs. Reva Lawrence, 812 E. Johnson St., Danville, Ill., says:

MRS. REVA LAWRENCE.

"My stomach had troubled me for years. About an hour after eating I would bloat until I was miserable and my food soured. I was subject to night sweats which were so bad I could almost wring water from my clothing, my bowels were disordered and I had suffered severely from headaches. I tried different medicines, but never got relief and it seemed everything had failed me until I got this wonderful Gly-Cas, which was recommended to me by a friend. My former long-standing stomach troubles are apparently all over now. I am not bothered with the night sweats and my headaches have been ended. I am surely grateful I learned about this wonderful Gly-Cas."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell, White Cross Pharmacy. Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

of the unsolicited confession made by Miller and went to Spring Valley at noon yesterday, where he heard the tale of the two young men and brought them back to Dixon. State's Attorney Mark C. Keller was called to the county jail yesterday afternoon and heard their story. Charges of larceny were preferred against both Kilby and Miller before Justice J. O. Shaulis and both were held to the January grand jury under bonds of $2000 each.

Miller states that his parents are dead and that he came west during the summer to see a new country. He had been tramping about, scantily clad and unaccustomed to conditions, was unable to secure employment for any length of time, and was without money. Both were anxious to begin serving their sentences for their act as soon as possible, but it will be necessary for them to await the action of the January grand jury.

Sheriff Miller communicated with the police department at Rock Island about noon yesterday, furnished a description of the car and the license numbers. At 1

POINTERS FOR PARENTS

By Olive Roberts Barton.
Copyright, 1928, by NEA Service, Inc.
About the question of sleeping and keeping children warm and covered in cold winter nights, there is much to be said.

Like everything else, it is up to our own good judgment, for homes are different, children are different, weather is different—and climate, too, plays a great part.

There exists a certain popular idea about "hardening" children. That is, not allowing them to become accustomed to too many bed-clothes at night, and shoving up all the windows regardless of cold and wind. I've seen parents do this who wouldn't have thought of sleeping in such rooms themselves. I have gone into bedrooms at night where there were sleeping children, when it was all I could do to endure the cold with my street wraps on.

The coldest days and nights of the year are ahead of us now. We face three or four months of our bitterest weather.

A wise mother is going to think this thing out now. First of all, there should be plenty of warm, light bed-clothes. This is important. Heavy bedclothes are not always warm, and they are never healthful. Blankets should be made of wool. Comforts may be cotton-filled, but cotton is likely to lump in places, leaving other parts thin or entirely empty between the quilt covers. The ideal comfort is wool, or fleece filled. Eiderdown is ideal but very expensive.

Nightgowns should be loose and warm. For winter they should be made of soft, fleecy material, such as outing flannel or the flexible knitted fabrics made for the purpose. Ready-made sleeping garments with feet, for children, cannot well be improved upon.

For little babies, sleeping bags are very practical. These can be made of small blankets folded double and sewed up the sides. Snappers can be put at the top, covering the shoulders, allowing enough space for the head. This is better than a draw-string. There should be plenty of room to kick about inside the bag. Blankets should be fastened to the bed if children toss. Tapes can be sewed on the corners and tied to the bars at the side.

The air of the room should be fresh and cold, but never bitter and never blowing on the bed or around the head. Attractive bedroom screens may be made cheaply by covering a clothes-horse with cretonne. The sides and head of open beds should be lined.

There is something else to be remembered, however. Not all winter nights are bitter. You can fix up a child for below-zero weather and expect him to be comfortable on a night registering 40 above. Don't keep him too hot on such nights.

This is where the question of judgment comes in. Consider your house, rooms, location or beds, and your climate. If you want your child to be well, give special attention to the way he sleeps.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore and family and Frank Moore and Miss Marion Peterson of Dixon were in attendance at the marriage of Mr. Moore's niece, Miss Dorothy Moore and Evald Axelson, at Rockford Thanksgiving day. The Rockford Register-Gazette printed the following article in regard to the wedding:

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Moore, daughter of V. C. Moore, 713 West Jefferson street, to Evald S. Axelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Axelson, 1327 Sixteenth avenue, which was solemnized Thursday noon at the new home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Moore, 427 North Third street. Miss Marie Moore, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Axelson, Jr., attended the couple.

The bride wore a gown of tan georgette with rhinestone trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of roses and baby mums. Her going-away costume was of navy blue crepe.

The matron of honor wore a frock of beige georgette and carried a bouquet of pompons.

Ferns and fall foliage were used in decoration, forming a canopy under which the bride couple stood during the ceremony. The fireplace banked with ferns formed the background.

A large wedding cake adorned with a miniature bride couple was the center piece on the bride's table. Decorations were in pink and white.

Both Mr. Axelson and his bride attended Rockford high school. The bride was a graduate of Brown's Business College and for the last two years has been employed in the office of Rockford Furniture Manufacturers' association.

On Wednesday evening, November 28th, Mrs. Jack Horner at 803 West Third Street delightfully entertained twelve young lady employees of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company with a Bon Voyage Party in honor of her sister, Miss Rae West, who sails for England, December 8th.

At 6 o'clock the guests partook of a most delicious dinner, after which bridge was enjoyed. Miss Lucile Stauffer winning high favor and Miss Edith Ayres, consolation. Miss West was the recipient of beautiful gifts and the best wishes of her friends.

For the past two years Miss West has been a valued employee of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company where her resignation is regretted by all, and her many friends hope she will some day return to America.

It has been rumored that Miss West will be married when she reaches "sunny England." All we can say is—if so, we sincerely hope that she proves as successful a homemaker as her sister, Mrs. Horner.

Hearts are trumps and South has the lead. North and South must win six of the seven tricks, against a perfect defense.

Lay out the cards on a table, as shown in the diagram, and study the situation. See if you can find a method of play that will give North and South six tricks.

THE SOLUTION
In this problem some very unusual but equally essential leading and discarding occurs to bring about the proper result.

South leads the ace of clubs and North discards the deuce of diamonds. South next leads the ten of spades, which West wins with the jack. West must now lead a diamond or a trump. If he leads a diamond, North wins the trick and South discards the king of spades. North then leads a trump and South discards the ace of spades. Now North's spades will win the last three tricks.

If West leads a trump to the third trick, North wins it and South discards the king of spades. North then leads a diamond and South discards the ace of spades. Again North's three spades will win the final tricks.

Of course it seems ridiculous to lead a ten when holding the ace and king, and when opponent holds only a singleton jack. And it seems equally ridiculous later to discard that ace and king. But there is no other way of solving this problem. (Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

MODERN ART WILL GET NOOK IN PARIS MUSEUM
Paris.—(AP)—An association of wealthy French art lovers has been formed to purchase and present to the nation representative examples of modern art.

The thirty members forming the association plan to buy two pictures each from a like number of modern masters. One they will keep for their own private collection, and present the other to the State for exhibition in the Luxembourg Museum, where the works of modern artists are shown.

It is not the intention of the association to confine its purchases to the works of French artists. It will have correspondents in every country on the lookout for striking works.

EZRA MEEKER OF PIONEER FAME IS DEAD IN SEATTLE

One of Last Survivors of Covered Wagon Days Died Today

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Ezra Meeker, 97, one of the last of the survivors of the pioneers of the covered wagon era, died here this morning after an illness of several months.

Among the first few hundred men to cross the American continent by ox team and actually the last man to make the journey by that mode of travel, Ezra Meeker also was among the first passengers to cross the continent in an airplane. The last trip was made when he was within two months of being 94 years of age.

The venerable pioneer's first exploit in crossing the continent by ox team came about through necessity and love of adventure; the second, more than half a century later, was undertaken in an effort to perpetuate the history of the early migrations and to suitably mark the once famous Oregon trail.

Made Trip in Plane
The airplane trip, made in October, 1924, was taken as a means of contrasting the first mode of travel across the country with the most modern way and Mr. Meeker attained the distinction of being the only person to make the journey by ox-team and airplane.

Whereas Mr. Meeker's pilgrimages by ox team, particularly the first, had been slow and arduous, on the occasion of his airplane trip 24 hours of actual flying brought him from Seattle to Washington. He arrived at the national capital Oct. 6, 1924, having attended an aviation meet at Dayton, Ohio, en route. He was piloted by Lieutenant Oakley G. Kelley.

At the age of seventy-six years and after an active career of fifty-four years in Oregon and Washington Meeker formed the plan of duplicating as nearly as possible the outfit with which he had crossed the plains in 1852 and proceeding therewith alone over the same route to its terminus at the Missouri river and thence on to New York and Washington. In February, 1906, he made actual start east.

Yoke of Steers
Meeker's outfit consisted of a yoke of steers, selected with the greatest care and a wagon made up of parts of three wagons which saw service on the plains in the early days. With this, he drove all the way to Washington, consuming twenty-two months on the way. As far as the Missouri river he traced every mile of the Oregon Trail and succeeded in interesting the residents of a large number of towns and villages in the erection of permanent markers. The journey on to Washington was for the purpose of inducing Congress to make an appropriation to aid in the work.

At Washington, Meeker was received by President Roosevelt, who expressed great interest in the undertaking and went with the pioneer alone to view his strange traveling outfit. After visiting Philadelphia and Cincinnati, Meeker shipped his cattle and wagon to St. Louis. From there he drove to Kansas City, Topeka and St. Joseph, tracing the several branches of the old Oregon Trail. The return to Oregon was by train, the aged prodigal reaching Portland June 6, 1908.

Native of Ohio
Ezra Meeker was born in Hamilton county, Ohio, Dec. 29, 1830, and spent his early boyhood as an apprentice in printing offices at Indianapolis, Ind. The age of twenty-one found him married and on his way, by ox team, with his young wife, to Iowa to obtain the which he had always coveted. A winter in Iowa of unusual severity induced the young couple to cast in their lot with the thousands who were pressing forward to California and the Northwest, the flood of plains travel reaching its height in the year 1852. (The first babe of the Meekers was born seven weeks old at the time the start was made. Portland, a struggling frontier town, was reached Oct. 1, 1852.)

Meeker was the author of several books of pioneer life. His career in Oregon and Washington was notable for its many activities, ranging from participation in Indian wars to spending four years at London as agent of the hog-growers of the Northwest.

For years Meeker was one of the largest hog growers in the Puget Sound Valley in the State of Washington, and at one time owned considerable land, but most of his property was disposed of when the hog industry ceased to be profitable. Later he moved to Seattle, and although more than 90 years of age, he continued to write of pioneer days and to take an active part in promoting good roads.

TOWARD THE ETERNAL.

Arthur Schnitzler, famous Viennese dramatist, tells an interviewer that he is very well satisfied with the existing universe except for the fact that man's span of life is altogether too short.

The interviewer, thereupon, asks him if he would be content with a life the length of Methuselah's; and Schnitzler tells him that he would not.

"What," he asks, "are a thousand years compared with eternity?"

Probably most of us have much the same notion as Schnitzler, and this can hardly be encouraging to the medical specialists who are using every resource of science to add a mere 10 years or so to our life expectancy. They can expect scant thanks for that. Nothing less than an eternity of living will ever satisfy us. We call ourselves religious, and profess an abiding faith, but death remains a mystery which we are not willing to solve.

This, of course, makes for unhappiness. If we could once become reconciled to the fact that life is short and its joys fleeting, we could get along with a great deal less misery. That would seem to be the reasonable thing to do. We cannot live forever; why not admit it, make the best of it, and look for peace and contentment in the days that remain to us, instead of bustling about making ourselves and our fellows miserable by trying to cram the earth and all the heavens into a few short decades?

Unfortunately or otherwise, we are not reasonable creatures. There is in us somewhere a wholly irrational spark of divinity that refuses to concede that we are made of clay. Our imagination gives us a glimpse of the things that might be possible for us if we were only given the time to accomplish them, and we never can be satisfied with anything less. Immortal life, universal brotherhood, never-ending peace, happiness for every human being—these are some of the glittering dreams that we have built to plague ourselves.

The quick years pass and generations of men vanish and are replaced by their children, but always these dreams remain. And from being creations of our own desire, these visions end by becoming our masters. They compel us up and on, plague us, make us unhappy, keep us from resting—and little by little we bring them toward realization. We lift ourselves by our bootstraps. Our discontent with life as it leads us to the colossal task of remolding it into what it ought to be.

Nothing less than eternity and infinity will ever satisfy us; and that extremely unreasonable attitude is precisely the reason why we may look on the future of the race with hope. We are climbing because we are too fine to accept any place than that of master of all creation.

THE OLD-TIME CAMPAIGNS.

Most of us, no doubt, are accustomed to think that the sordid side of presidential campaign politics is distinctly a modern invention. We are apt to yearn for the good old days of the pre-Civil War period, when issues were settled on their merits and there was less wire-pulling and chicanery.

It happens, however, that we're all wrong.

Rodney Dutcher's articles on "The Presidential Parade," recounting all of the campaigns in our history, is enlightening. Our national heroes, like Jackson, Clay, Webster, Calhoun and the rest, could play politics as well as any man now living. There were just as many tricks in those days, and they were all used. We may spend more money on campaigns now—the country, after all, is bigger—but our campaigns are no more bitter or underhanded.

"A boat on wheels with a deer in front! My goodness, what a funny stunt," said Clowny to the hunter man. "Now tell us what it's for. Are we supposed to ride around, and go a-bumping o'er the ground? If that's the treat you have in mind, some real sport is in store."

"Now don't be too impatient, lad," the hunter said. "You'll soon be glad that I have fixed your old boat up. But first, I have a hunch that all you tinymites would like to take an appetizing hike, and then come back to my small home and have a little lunch."

The hunter then began to run, and shouted, "Come on, everyone. I'll show you where some chestnuts are, and you can pick a few." They reached some chestnut trees nearby, and then the bunch heard Coppy cry, "Oh, gee, I've tasted one. They're big and mighty tasty, too."

Each Tiny gathered up his share, and then the hunter shouted, "There!

We have enough, so now let's go back home where we can eat." But, when they sat down to a meal, poor Clowny said, "How full I feel. We've eaten chestnuts till we've spoiled a wondrous luncheon treat."

As soon as they had finished lunch, the hunter called the happy bunch and said, "Now I will tell you why I fixed your boat up fine. All jump aboard, just as you are. My little deer will pull you far. I'm sure you'll like this trip. It's to a favorite place of mine."

The Tiniest jumped into the boat, and then the hunter cleared his throat, and said, "You're bound for Toy Land, where old Santa can be found. Just shout giddap and then the deer will take you quickly out of here." The Tiniest did, and soon their boat was traveling o'er the ground.

(The Tiniest have a bump ride in the next story.)

PUZZLING BLOW OUTS

There are several kinds of BLOW OUTS, but the par is the same for all of them. That is seven. But perhaps you can beat the solution on page 7.

B	L	O	W
O	U	T	S

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes. COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each pump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

One solution is printed on page 7.

FACE TO FACE WITH SANTA
Some folks there are who don't believe there is a Santa Claus. But I don't think they know a thing about it, jest because I heard him with my very ears, an' saw him with my eyes. An' when old Santa saw me he was chucklin' with surprise.

Six stockings hanging by the fireplace, 'neath the mantle shelf. Were bulging full of everything placed in there by himself; An' on the floor were games, an' toys, an' lots of things to eat. He looked at them as if he'd like to stay an' share the treat.

Oh! my! how many things he took from out his heavy pack. But, gee! how difficult it was to get it off his back. He did not waste a minute, though; he worked with all his might. I guess he thought his reindeers would not wait for him that night.

His hair an' beard were white an' long, jest like the fluffy snow. An' oh! how quick his movements were—so anxious, jest to go. All dressed in red, an' 'trimmed with white—his cap, an' 'coat, an' pants— An' on his feet were tiny boots which glistened as he'd prance.

Nobody else was peeping; no one knew that he was there; He seemed to come from somewhere, an' disappeared somewhere.

I watched him from my bedroom door behind the curtains tight. His face all smiles an' merry in the ruddy fireplace light.

I scarcely breathed, I was so still an' never made a sound; The old clock in the corner ticked the silence so profound; But jest before old Santa left, he spied my hiding place; He waved his hand an' threw a kiss, then vanished into space.

But the wife took the only NEOPHEN tablet left

"What a party! Eight hours of dancing and dining. Fred is a real host, but the next party I go to, you can bet your last dollar I'll stop for a box of NEOPHEN. There was only one NEOPHEN tablet left in the medicine cabinet and it stopped Mary's headache in three minutes. She wouldn't look so contented now if she knew how miserable I feel. I swallowed two glasses of hot milk but it nauseated me still worse. My nerves seem to be playing tag."

For "morning after" headache depend on NEOPHEN tablets

NEOPHEN, brought here from Germany, is one of the most important of the many medical discoveries we owe the Rhineland scientists.

The formula is Faber's Purified Amidopyrine—preferred by the medical profession because it is harmless and not habit-forming. Almost the entire tablet is excreted from the system within twenty minutes—no need to ever increase the dose.

The promptness of results is amazing. Relief often comes within 5 minutes. The usual maximum time is 20 minutes. Yet there is no heart depression, no disturbance to any organ. KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Lockport, N. Y., after a long illness of over four years duration, suffering from two paralytic strokes, Lucy B. Cook, passed over the border line that separates man from immortality. She was a devoted, sincere Christian woman, faithful to the end, her gentle, loving heart overflowing with kindness to others and appreciation of her friends. With the exception of her nephew, Leroy S. Tolman, of Colorado Springs, Colo., she was the only remaining member of her family. She was born at Franklin Grove, Ill., April 19, 1865, only daughter of Adatus and Lottie (Yale) Tolman, both natives of New York state, who were early pioneers of Lee County, Illinois, having settled there about 1834. Together with her husband she has resided in Niagara county, N. Y., since 1922 and in Lockport, N. Y., since the early part of 1922. In the beautiful cemetery at Franklin Grove in the family lot, sheltered beneath the overhanging branches of giant oaks, her mortal body, once the temple of a beautiful soul, was laid to rest beside her father and mother and brothers to await the dawn of another day, when a hand divine shall gather the sacred dust and rebuild for immortality its broken walls. Weary and tired from the burden of illness and patient waiting for returning health, death touched her tired heart. She sleeps in the sanctuary and silence of the grave, beneath the quiet of the stars. The fast flying years will come and go, and the soft summer breezes with their whispering lullabys will pass over this sacred mound, the winter snows will cover it with a mantle of white, and all is still—very still, but somewhere amid the realms of light will dwell this immortal spirit awaiting the loved one here. Today this gentle loving spirit has solved the great mystery of life and death. Today she is queen of knowledge and knows that all this wisdom of earth cannot tell. The remains accompanied by the husband arrived here Saturday noon and were taken to the Methodist church, where funeral services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. Tavenner. The pall bearers were: A. F. Dierdorff, A. J. Stewart, E. L. Lott, S. S. Herbst, David Weigle and Joseph Ling.

Mrs. C. A. Bancroft Dies.
Mrs. Charles A. Bancroft, wife of former editor of the Franklin Grove Reporter passed away at her home in Durand, northwest of Rockford,

Wednesday morning, following a long illness with cancer. Mrs. Bancroft was a great sufferer during her long illness, yet she bore her ordeal with patience. She was 62 years of age and was born at West Liberty, Iowa. She is survived by her husband, Charles A. Bancroft, two sons, Hubert Bancroft, editor of the Durand Gazette, and Rev. Zenas Bancroft of San Bernardino, Calif., and a step son, Clyde Bancroft of Hartford, Connecticut. Mrs. Bancroft is also survived by two sisters, Miss Cora Johns of Ashton and Mrs. Ada Tucker of West Liberty, Iowa. The Bancroft family lived here several years, living in the residence now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnson.

After selling the Reporter they conducted a five and ten cent store where the Reporter office now is, later moving to Durand, Ill. Owing to failing health Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft sold their business at Durand and moved to California to make their home where the climate would be more beneficial to their health. Mrs. Bancroft was taken ill last summer and an operation revealed that she was afflicted with a cancer. As soon as her strength permitted she was brought back to Illinois, it being her wish that she might pass her remaining days surrounded by her many friends. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 1:30 at Durand, and the remains were taken by train to West Liberty, Ia., for interment.

Visited Former Pastor.
Thirty-four friends of Rev. L. V. Sittler, former pastor of the Methodist church of this place, went to Prophetstown, Sunday morning, spending the day with the Sittler family and attending morning worship. A picnic dinner was enjoyed at noon in the basement of the church, and the Men's Brotherhood of the Prophetstown church furnished ice cream for the dessert. In the afternoon the company enjoyed a pipe organ recital in the church, given by the organist for their special benefit. Those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Conlon and daughter June, Mrs. E. E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Dierdorff, Mr. and Mrs. LaForrest Meredith, Charles Sunday and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Gross and daughter Miss Carrie, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hausen and daughter Miss Winifred, Mrs. Jennie Reigle, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lincoln, Mrs.

Mary Malden, J. C. Weigle, Mrs. Ruth Kelley and children, Mrs. John Sloggett, Mrs. Richard Sunday and Donna Maude.

Mrs. Hodges Dies.
Miss Helen Adams received a telegram Wednesday morning from Los Angeles, Calif., conveying the very sad news of the death of her friend, Mrs. Clayton Hodges, who passed away Tuesday of influenza. The funeral was held in that city Friday morning. Mrs. Hodges will be remembered as Eva Taubenheim, a former Franklin Grove girl. Born here, she grew to young womanhood at this place and graduated from the local school. Her friends are legion. It is indeed a sad death, she being a young woman, a mother and a good wife.

After the Candles Have Burned Out...

The many little gifts of sentiment, that bespeak friendships and happy associations, are vital to the spirit of Christmas.

But after the candles have burned out, after ordinary gifts have been laid aside, then the Maytag will more and more reveal itself as the outstanding gift—practical, helpful, a joy for years to come.

Plan together for this practical gift—the Maytag. Let it be the crowning, lasting remembrance of the yuletide.

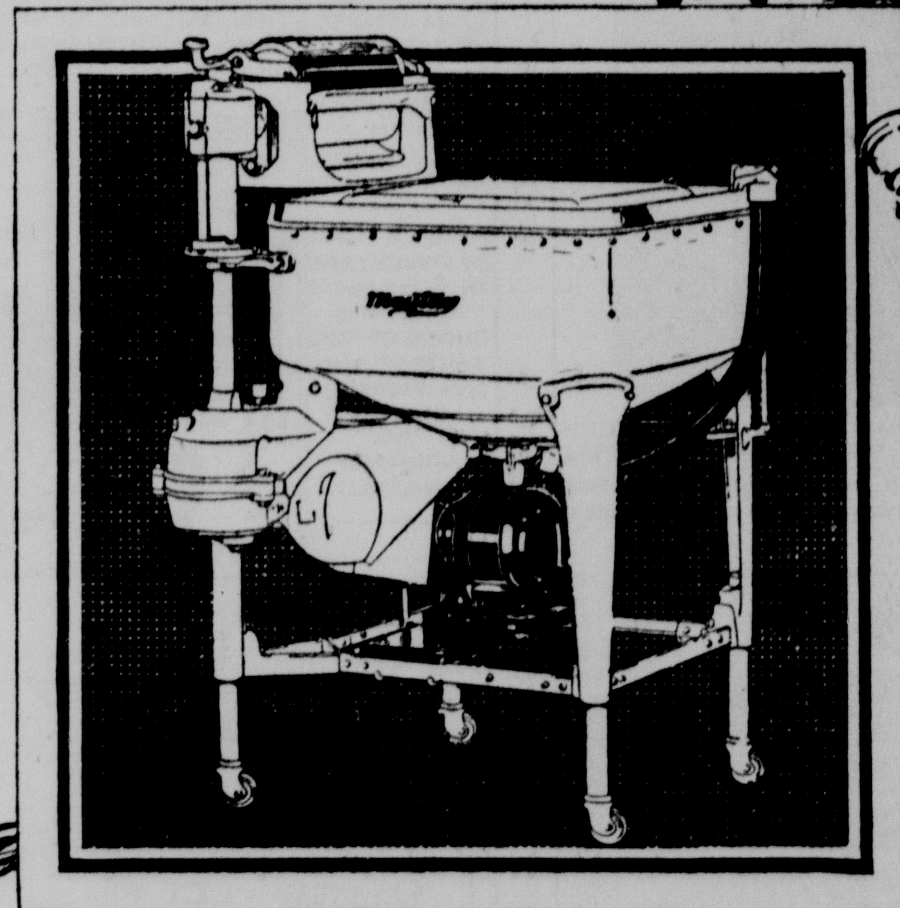

The seamless cast-aluminum tub and gyrafoam action, which revolutionized washing speed and thoroughness; the new type Roller Water Remover, so safe, handy, efficient and careful; the silent, precision-cut steel gears; these and other Maytag qualities give it lasting value, make it the perfect gift.

Officers of Warship; Scenes in the Galley

Officers of the super-dreadnaught Maryland, on which President-elect Herbert Hoover and party are sailing to South American ports, are shown above. They are: 1—Captain Victor A. Kimberly, in command of the battleship; 2—Lieutenant Commander A. W. Brown, second in command; 3—Lieutenant Commander B. I. Huske, ship's chaplain; 4—Ensign W. R. Caruthers, chief radio operator.

Here are two scenes from the galley of the U. S. S. Maryland, which is carrying President-elect Hoover and party to South America. At the top, baker's men are shown putting the frosting on some cup cakes for the next president's mess. Below, Joe Lindsey, officers' cook, first class, is seasoning a juicy roast to the Hoover taste.

"Deeply touched" by the quick verdict of a jury that acquitted him of perjury after his trial in Washington, Col. Robert W. Stewart, right, lost little time in thanking his chief counsel, Frank J. Hogan, left. Or perhaps, as this photo was taken, the lawyer was extending congratulations to the chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, who last June was acquitted of a charge of contempt of the senate.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, denounced" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 2.

The Golden Text was, "Can any hide himself in secret places that I shall not see him? saith the Lord. Do not I fill heaven and earth? saith the Lord" (Jeremiah 23:24).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness; And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God" (Eph. 6:11, 14, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are self government, reason, and conscience. Man is properly self-governed only when he is guided rightly and governed by His Maker, divine Truth and Love" (p. 106).

ALL about them now the lightning cracked and thunderous echoes made an ear-splitting din. The clouds were black—hanging lower than the white fleece that aviators love to sport with. Dan knew that he could get above them if . . . Crack! That one was near!

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Fate introduces JERRY RAY to ALESTER CARSTAIRS when he crashes his airplane into the camp where she is sheltering her roommate. She likes his pilot, DAN HARVEY, but ALESTER shows her with attention. Dan tries to win her, but when he proposes she tells him she does not believe in him. He has lost her job on his account, he helps get her a place in a chorus.

Rehearsal is hard, but EVELYN STARR assists her. ALESTER drives her to Atlantic City for the opening, but she makes him angry by refusing to attend a midnight party he wants to give the chorus.

A short mention in the show review and promotion to a special dance number, elite Jerry Evelyn wants her to go to Boston with her on the train but ALESTER insists on driving her there. He sends her home, one day when he goes by Philadelphia and stops at a notorious roadhouse for dinner. He sees ALESTER at the show opening. She is in despair until ALESTER suddenly says, "You can stay—with me."

But Dan says the storms are too heavy for flying. ALESTER prepares to hold the ship level, trying to suppress his instinct to soar higher. He had some bitter moments with unbidden images that had come to him. . . . Jerry in ALESTER'S arms. . . . God, he'd like to crash to earth to escape living in a world in which such a thing as that could happen!

Now he was nosing upward again. Jerry's life was too precious to be destroyed at the whim of a fool who wished to escape his suffering, he told himself. But that pause in their climb. . . . It seemed to have timed their arrival at a certain spot in the air with that of a dart of forked lightning that struck but a bare few feet away from the cockpit itself.

One wing was scorched. It began to smoke. Dan's hand on the control was frozen there. He could not open his eyes. He did not know about the wing that was smoldering. But his senses were clear. He struggled mightily to shake off the paralysis of shock. The plane was banking. . . . he told himself it would go into a nose dive. . . .

JERRY lay limp in her seat. She was spared this last horror. The dazzling, horrible flash so near had stunned her.

Dan's strong will forced obedience from his momentarily helpless body. His eyes came open and he saw the burning wing.

His imagination, always active and acutely alive in situations where Jerry was concerned, instantly conjured up a picture of her crushed body being devoured by hungry flames.

He believed they must have drifted over land—they hadn't been so very far at sea. His mind told him this in a subconscious effort, working mechanically under his conscious thoughts of Jerry. If they crashed it would not be to a watery grave. . . .

In response to a tremendous effort of will his body muscles responded to the agonized call of his mind for action. He had seen a way to save the girl he loved better than his own life!

control so that she could not take hold of it. He knew she must be in an agony of terror.

Who would not, with all hell bursting around them and no place to go—unless you wanted to fly right into it?

The rain had stopped, or rather they had left it behind them. These were lightning clouds that must fire their bolts before releasing their torrents of water. And Dan knew they'd been in the clear long enough to dry the wing fabric.

In the realization of their utter helplessness Jerry forgot everything else. . . . her rehearsal. . . . her mother. . . .

Dan prayed for rain. It might be of no avail to them. . . . probably it wouldn't be. . . . If they were struck. . . . he thought of the words he had spoken to Jerry. . . . preferring to crash with her rather than let another man have her. . . . It would be a miracle if that did not prove to be their fate.

For a fleeting space of time Dan sought to hold the ship level, trying to suppress his instinct to soar higher. He had some bitter moments with unbidden images that had come to him. . . . SEASON HAS BEEN UNUSUAL; UPSETS MARKED FEATURE

All Attendance Records for Football Games Have Been Broken

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

New York, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Except for a few sparkling and decisive tests in the south and far west, the 1928 college football season has closed an unprecedented and meteoric course along the chalk-marked battlefields. Its chief developments have included record-smashing attendance and gate receipts for the fifth straight year, an extraordinary succession of upsets featuring the downfall of champions and teams rarely out of the top flight.

The early season crowd of 122,000 that witnessed the Navy-Notre Dame game in Chicago was the high spot, smashing all football records. New marks in attendance also were set in the east and southwest, while every other section contributed to an outpouring over the country from September to December, approximating 5,000,000 to 30,000,000.

Laurels to West, South.
From the angle of sheer playing accomplishments, representatives of the Pacific coast and the south take the major share of the season's laurels, a situation that will find its appropriate climax in the New Year's Day engagement between two of the foremost teams of these areas, California and Georgia Tech, in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

The golden west has a double armlock and half Nelson on intersectional glory as a result of the victories of Stanford over the Army, Oregon State over New York University, and Southern California over Notre Dame within a three-day period. Whatever claims the east hoped to stake in the scramble for national title honors were wiped out by the crushing setbacks administered to the Army and N. Y. U.

Two of the foremost teams of the year, Georgia Tech and Florida, lead the south's drive for national recognition with fine records of achievement against all opposition. Neither has been beaten nor tied but each has one more sectional obstacle to hurdle this week, with Tech playing Georgia at Atlanta and Florida meeting another undefeated foe Tennessee, at Knoxville.

No Unchallenged Claims
No team from any area has an unchallenged claim to national championship.

So far as the records of major colleges go, only four can boast spotless slates. Boston College, the only team neither beaten nor tied in the east, and Detroit, enjoying the same distinction in the middle west, share this honor with the southern pair, Florida and Georgia Tech.

Boston College and Detroit both have finished fine seasons. But there are others to consider. Southern California, Utah and Tennessee have been tied but unbeaten. California has bowed to no college foe although tied by Stanford and Southern California. Stanford lost to Southern California but gave an exhibition of attacking power Saturday against the Army that has not been surpassed this season in big league competition.

It is a strange if not unprecedented season when such ordinarily mighty machines as Yale, Michigan and Notre Dame each suffer the humiliation of four defeats.

Every member of the new Big Six conference, as well as the Southwestern Conference, suffered at least one reverse. Only Utah survived in the Rocky Mountain conference zone and the Indians were tied twice.

Champs Overthrown.
Champions were overthrown in five of the major fields of action. Stanford shared the Pacific Coast honors last year with Southern California but the Trojans occupy the top alone this season. Utah displaced the Colorado Aggies in the Rocky Mountain conference and Texas ousted the Texas Aggies from the Southwestern Conference title. Nebraska won the first Big Six crown in a group that was led by Missouri last year. Boston College finished with the best eastern record where Yale and Pittsburgh shared the 1927 leadership.

Illinois, in a race decided on the last day, successfully defended the Big Ten championship. Georgia Tech appears likely to stay at the top of the Southern conference.

Besides the record-breaking outpouring of 122,000 at Soldier Field on October 13 for the Navy-Notre Dame game, the east reached new high marks with crowds of 86,000 filling the Yankee Stadium in New York for each of the Army's battles with Notre Dame and Stanford Throngs of close to 80,000 or more witnessed spectacles at Ohio State and Michigan while 90,000 saw the Stanford-California game at Berkeley and 80,000 the Southern California-Notre Dame contest at Los Angeles. In the southwest, a new record was set by the crowd of 45,000 for the game in which Texas clinched the sectional title, defeating the Texas Aggies.

DRAFT RULES TO BE MAIN ISSUES BEFORE MAGNATES

National Association of Base Ball Clubs to Meet Tomorrow

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 3.—(AP)—No prophet nor son of a prophet is needed to make a forecast of the one word to be heard more often than any other at the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Base Ball Leagues, opening in Toronto Wednesday. It will be "draft."

On behalf of the major leagues, although not directly from the big fellows, will be submitted a plan by which the majors would agree to sign no players without previous professional experience. Except from the colleges, if the minors fall solidly in line behind the unrestricted draft, or "selection by promotion" of baseball players.

The proposed revision of the selection process would also provide that no player could be drafted from a class A club until he had spent four seasons or parts of four seasons in professional baseball. The class A requirement would be three seasons or parts of seasons with two for class B.

Little Hope For Plan.
Indications before the opening of the convention were that little if any hope could be held out for the passage of the revised plan.

Defeat of the effort to restore the unrestricted draft in this form, however, may only serve to start the fireworks. William G. Branham, president of the South Atlantic Association, Piedmont and Eastern Carolina leagues, long a sponsor for the draft as the salvation of the leagues of lower classification, is sponsoring a resolution which does not require unanimous action, but a mere majority.

President Branham will propose an amendment providing that a player signing a contract to play with a National Association club operating under the draft cannot thereafter be deprived of the privilege of being drafted if his ability warrants. Under Mr. Branham's resolution if a player starting his baseball career with a club in a "draft" league should later have his contract assigned by trade or purchase to a "non-draft" league, he could be drafted in spite of the league rule forbidding such "selection."

Strong Best Scorer on Grid This Year

(By the Associated Press.)
The country's best individual scoring machine is Ken Strong, star halfback of New York University.

With only a few more games in the south, Strong's 161 points are ample to assure him the 1928 scoring championship. Runner-up honors belong to Banker of Tulane, who tallied 124 points in ten games.

transmitted today to Congress by Attorney General Sargent.

The Canadian situation was dealt with by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, whose report was incorporated in the Attorney General's report. She said that, while the federal authorities were successfully combatting the illegal entry of liquor from the high seas, approximately $2,000,000 worth of liquor a month were smuggled across the Canadian border.

Mrs. Willebrandt quoted statistics issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce of Canada which she declared showed that there were 1,169,002 gallons of whiskey alone, valued at $18,883,541 exported to the United States in 1928.

"These figures given, cover the exportations of whiskey only," Mrs. Willebrandt said, "and the same records show that the total of all alcoholic beverages exported to the United States from Canada during the year ending June 30, 1928, amounted to $24,397,950. As observed heretofore these records show only the liquor which was regularly cleared through Canadian customs. Some of it may be short circuited for consumption in Canada. On the other hand, it is believed a substantial amount of liquor enters the United States across the Northern border of which the Canadian customs has no record."

Notes Big Increase
Mrs. Willebrandt said that the figures showed that the volume of the illegal traffic had increased more than 75 per cent in three years.

In explaining the decrease of smuggling from the high seas the woman assistant attorney general said that effective work by coast guard, prohibition and Treasury Department forces had increased the number of vessels hovering off the coast to furnish liquor to fast craft which would dash to safety of secluded spots to unload. The number of vessels of this sort seized, she added, had decreased from 31 in 1927 to 22 in 1928 and in the last year 28 such vessels had been forfeited to the government.

In 1928 a total of 370 domestic craft were seized as rum runners, Mrs. Willebrandt continued, and of that number 174 or 47 per cent were captured off the coast of Florida with cargoes for the most part directly from the Bahama Islands.

During the year Mrs. Willebrandt reported, there was an increase of 15,020 in the number of criminal prohibition cases instituted by the Department bringing the total for the year to 55,729. Of these she said the department secured 48,826 convictions, with jail sentences totaling 7,700 years and fines, penalties and forfeitures aggregating $7,303,563. There were 34 convictions for each acquittal, she added.

Many Injunctions.
Injunctions under the padlock provisions of the Volstead act were freely used by the department in the last year. There were a total of 3,999 permanent injunctions granted under this provision.

Attorney General Sargent especially urged Congress to consolidate all legal offices under the Department of Justice, reiterating his recommendation of a year ago that proceedings to remove persons charged with violations of the federal law from one district to another, be simplified.

The Attorney General also transmitted the report of the conference of district judges in which Congress was urged to increase the number of district judges in the Southern District of New York by three and in the eastern district of New York by two. The report said that the condition of the dockets in Brooklyn and

New York cannot be bettered unless such action is taken.

The conference likewise recommended an additional district judge for Florida, an additional circuit judge in the second circuit and another in the ninth circuit.

The conference reported that there were 147,142 cases on the dockets at the end of the fiscal year, a decrease of 2,160 over a year ago. Of this number civil cases in which the United States is involved amounted to 18,546, an increase of 2,359, criminal cases to 30,375, a decrease of 4,921 over a year ago. Among other cases pending were civil cases in which the United States was not involved which numbered 39,351 an increase of 981 over a year ago.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
